

What might conservatoires and higher music education look like in 2050? In this session, we'll take inspiration from the themes that have run through the conference - leadership, innovation, and wellbeing - to reimagine the holistic conservatoire of the future. Together, we'll ask bold questions: Where should we be by 2050? How do we get there? And what's missing right now in 2025 that could stop us? This is a space to share your ideas, provocations, and reflections from the past few days. Through collective imagination, we'll build a timeline of milestones - charting not just possible futures, but desirable ones. Come ready to contribute, challenge, and dream big about what's next for our field.